Ringaskiddy, January 12, 2021 — Novartis announced today that it has entered into an agreement with SGS, a leading global company in Analytical Testing, Inspection and Certification, to divest assets from the Novartis International Service Laboratory (ISL), located on the Novartis Ringaskiddy campus in Ireland.

Novartis has collaborated with SGS as an external supplier, for a number of years, and looks forward to a closer relationship, hosting SGS on the Novartis Ringaskiddy campus. The agreement foresees the continued provision of Drug Substance Testing, Stability Program Management and Analytical Services and Technology (AS&T) to Novartis.

Maeve Byrne, Managing Director, Novartis Ringaskiddy Limited said, “We are very proud of our colleagues in International Service Laboratory, who have a strong reputation of quality expertise over the last 22 years, and are excited to secure the continued development of ISL as an analytical center of excellence as well as to support the sustainability of jobs and expertise. Novartis is happy to host SGS on the Ringaskiddy campus and to continue the collaboration”.
